MIAMI, Fla. – June 20, 2023 – Telemundo, the exclusive Spanish-language home of the FIFA Women's World Cup Australia & New Zealand 2023™, unveils its complete broadcast lineup and announce teams, featuring a commentary team with the most women ever in Spanish-language U.S. media history.

The network's broadcast schedule is outlined below, including all 64 matches will air live and exclusively in Spanish with 33 on Telemundo – the largest ever FIFA Women's World Cup matches on a broadcast network in U.S. television history – 31 on Universo, and every match streaming live on Peacock starting July 20 through August 20.

“For us, the Women's World Cup is more than a premier global sporting event – it is an opportunity to contribute to something bigger, and we're proud to enhance our coverage with experienced and diverse voices,” said Eli Velazquez, Executive Vice President of Sports, Telemundo. “We will be complementing our team of top sports commentators and journalists with the depth and expertise of former coaches, players, and referees who will provide their unique on-the-pitch perspectives offering our viewers the most thorough analysis throughout the tournament.”

Telemundo's cross-continental production will feature on-the-ground coverage across Australia and New Zealand anchored by Telemundo's Emmy-nominated sports host Ana Jurka, Emmy-award winning sports journalist Miguel Gurwitz, lead Premier League host Carlota Vizmanos and World Cup veteran reporter and Telemundo 48's Carlos Yustis as the official hosts, leading the pre-, halftime and post-game analysis. Sports journalist and host Veronica Rodriguez will host Telemundo's leading late-night weekend sports show, Zona Mixta, throughout the tournament.

Onsite in-venue announce team will be led by Hall of Famer, seven-time Emmy award-winner Andres Cantor with analysis by former Mexican National Team and Chivas player Manuel Sol and former U.S. Soccer coach Natalia Astrain. Additional announce teams will feature play-by-play by two-time Emmy award nominee Sammy Sadovnik, the voice of World Cup 2019's Final Copan Alvarez, well-known soccer host and announcer Daniella Lopez-Guajaro, and accomplished Spanish-language sports broadcaster Jorge Calvo.

Experienced sports analyst Eduardo Biscayart and sports journalist Diana Rincon join the coverage as lead analysts. In addition, the soccer experts will join Telemundo Deportes' announce teams to serve as analysts for relevant matches.

Team of Experts Joining Telemundo Deportes' FIFA Women's World Cup Australia & New Zealand 2023™ Coverage:

Natalia Astrain (Spain/USA | Coach), former U.S. coach, returns as guest analyst for Women's World Cup joining Cantor's announce team onsite after making history with the network during the World Cup Qatar 2022 calling Morocco-Portugal alongside head coach of the Costa Rica women's national football team Amelia Valverde, the first ever Men's World Cup match called by two women.

Deyna Castellanos (Venezuela | Forward) rejoins Telemundo Deportes' commentary team as a guest analyst after contributing to the coverage of the FIFA Women's World Cup France 2019. Castellanos is a forward for Manchester City's Women's Super League Club and the Venezuela women's national team.

Isabella Echeverri (Colombia | Center back) former soccer player who last played as a center back for the Liga MX Femenil club CF Monterrey and the Colombia women's national team. Telemundo Deportes welcomes Echeverri to the team for the first time.

Janelly Farias (Mexico | Center back) is a Mexican soccer player who was part of the Mexican national team during the Women's World Cup in 2006 and who provided analysis for the Women's World Cup in 2019 for Telemundo. Farias is also the co-host for NBCU's new bilingual podcast My New Favorite Futbolista / Mi Mundialista Favorita profiling the most-inspiring FIFA Women's World Cup 2023 stars.

Jaime Herrera (Mexico | Referee) is recognized for being the first Mexican referee to officiate in the Major League Soccer. During his 19-year career he officiated international tournaments such as Copa Libertadores among others. The retired referee joined Telemundo for the 2022 FIFA World Cup Qatar™ and returns this summer to analyze the calls for the FIFA Women's World Cup 2023 this summer.

Kenti Robles (Mexico | Right Back) is a Mexican professional footballer who plays as a right back for Spanish Primera División club Real Madrid CF and the Mexico women's national team.

Maxi Rodriguez (Argentina | Midfielder) is a former Argentine footballer nicknamed "La Fiera" returns to Telemundo after his successful participation in Qatar. Previously, the legendary midfielder left his mark in Spain playing for Espanyol and Atlético Madrid then spent two years with Liverpool in England, and returned to Newell's Old Boys where he began and ended his career. Rodríguez represented his country in three World Cups, finishing second in 2014. One of his career highlights occurred in Germany 2006 when he scored the goal that eliminated Mexico during the extra time of the Round of 16 match played in Leipzig.

Lucila Venegas (Mexico | Referee) is an international football referee from Mexico who became a FIFA listed referee in 2008. Since then, she served as an official at the 2019 FIFA Women's World Cup in France.

Telemundo's presentation marks the first time in U.S. television history the women's competition is broadcasted in its entirety in Spanish and the most matches ever airing live on a U.S. broadcast network, regardless of language. In addition, the highly anticipated tournament this summer will be the first-ever Women's World Cup on Peacock, the exclusive Spanish-language streaming home of the FIFA Women's World Cup 2023™, which will stream every match live.
